

8,522 IMMIGRANTS ON ELLIS ISLAND MAKES A RECORD

But 700 of Them Landed
From Six Liners in Two Days.

A BABEL OF TONGUES.

Agricultural Depression and the Balkan War Thought to Be Responsible.

Conditions that made the contractors on Ellis Island to-day, where the greatest congestion in the records of the immigrant station exists. Just 1000 of almost every speech and color under the heavens are there waiting to pass through Uncle Sam's bureau and out to the freedom of a new land.

Although several hundred of the more than 8,500 who came in on three ships yesterday spent the night aboard because the island simply couldn't accommodate another human being, more than a thousand had to sleep in the corridors and between rows of bunks in the dormitories, with nothing between themselves and the boards but the clothing they wore and an occasional blanket scattered unheeded from scattered bunks.

The congestion is a climax to the unprecedented thrush of immigrants during the last six months. Six immigrant carrying ships arrived in two days. On Tuesday the Canada, San Giorgio and Kronprinzessin Cecilie brought 4,346; yesterday the President Grant, the Olympic and the Germania brought 3,177 and there were already more than 700 newly arrived immigrants whose cases had been held over for review by the special boards of inquiry.

ALL SOUTHERN EUROPE FUR-NISHES ITS QUOTA.

The same presented to-day by the Immigrant detention pens and corridors of the administration building is one calculated to appeal to proponents of a more rapidly restricted immigration.

The Island looks as if Southern Europe had been tipped on edge and everybody who did not have a firm grip on the landscape there had slid in a jumbled mass on to this little ten-acre plot of ground. Swarthy Greeks and Armenians sit side by side with fair haired Austrians, steady eyed Magyars quarrel with stunted Poles for inches of room on the floor. Men from Dalmatia and men from Bohemia yell at each other in hysterical effort to make each other understood, and women from the peasantry of Croatia, Bavaria, Russia and Montenegro try to hush fretful children.

Though the Government tries to give lodging to those detained on Ellis Island, it does not guarantee food, and the great dining hall in the administration building is so jammed that the hungry have to take turns at the tables.
The box lunches, which can do for an individual or a family, according to prices, have melted away before the voracious horde like snowballs in June.

The immigration authorities are at a loss to explain the increase of immigration in the fall of the year, when the rush from Europe is usually light. Since most of the newcomers are from agricultural lands instead of from manufacturing centres they take the influx to indicate that agricultural conditions in Southern Europe, and Southeastern Europe are bad. The continuous fighting in the Balkans also had its influence in swelling the number of immigrants.
The fiscal year 1907 marked the record for immigration, when 1,300,000 in round numbers, were admitted to America through the port of New York alone.
Now, the authorities say, if the tide of immigration that has set this way since July 1 continues unabated this fiscal
